

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

TRIBUTE TO A CIA LEGEND,
WILLIAM L. MOSEBEY, JR.

HON. BUD SHUSTER

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 27, 1996

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to William Mosebey who will receive, on Friday, March 29, 1996, the Central Intelligence Agency's Distinguished Intelligence Medal from Director of Central Intelligence, John Deutch.

Bill Mosebey has served our country with distinction for 34 years in the faroff outposts of the cold war. In those years, he rose to the highest level in the Central Intelligence Agency's clandestine service, but, more importantly he became a legend. Not since Chinese Gordon defended the gates of Khartoum has an officer reached the stature of William Mosebey. With a wry sense of humor, and a brilliant operational mind, he managed and executed the most difficult of clandestine operations, fulfilling every objective set out for him. He served as a chief of station in four countries. In each of them, he spent his share of time recruiting and managing wellplaced human penetrations.

His arrival in any post was a sure signal that the country was high on our President's priority list. His foes across the stark lines of the cold war knew that they were facing the ultimate professional—one who stands in the intelligence hall of fame with men like Richard Helms and Alan Dulles. At the same time, there was always time for a visit to the Bundo to add a new trophy to his wall.

Bill Mosebey is one of the unsung heroes of our great victory over Marxism, but there is also another unsung hero and that is his wife Carolyn. In Bill's own words:

Whatever contribution I was able to make to our national effort over the years of the cold war and after was sustained by the fact that I had a very engaged and supportive wife who, without question, would go anywhere and do anything the job demanded. As far as I am concerned she is stamped "keep forever" (an old KGB classification).

In Washington, a place that always made him long for the bush, he set an example for young officers. Never was there a time when he didn't have a moment to walk a new recruit through the intricacies of running a spy. Always ready to open his home with a homecooked meal from Carolyn's kitchen, he would entertain into the night with stories and laughter, but one came away from these evenings knowing that they had been in the presence of one of the great ones.

Mr. Speaker, Bill Mosebey is the Central Intelligence Agency's "Riley Ace of Spies." We owe him our gratitude and should shower him with our thanks. But knowing Bill, who has returned to his roots as a farmer in central Pennsylvania, he will be happy if the Sun shines, if it rains after the spring planting, and the hunting remains good this fall. But, he should also be pleased knowing that he left the Central Intelligence Agency with honor, with a distinguished record, and my enduring respect, along with those in the intelligence community, for a job well done.

A TRIBUTE TO UNDERSHERIFF
RAY DORSEY

HON. JERRY LEWIS

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 27, 1996

Mr. LEWIS of California. Mr. Speaker, I would like to bring to your attention the fine work and outstanding public service of San Bernardino County Undersheriff, Ray Dorsey of Redlands, CA. Undersheriff Dorsey will be honored today upon his retirement after almost 29 years of service to the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department.

Ray Dorsey was born in Los Angeles, graduated from Redlands High School, and attended San Bernardino Valley College and the University of Redlands. He began his career in July 1967, when he was appointed deputy sheriff and assigned to the Glen Helen Rehabilitation Center. After serving his first patrol assignment at the Yucaipa Station, Ray was promoted to detective, his first of many promotions, and assigned to the specialized detective division in 1971 where his responsibilities included crimes against property and homicide investigations.

With his promotion to sergeant in 1973, Ray returned to the Yucaipa Station and assumed his duties as the second-in-command. His promotion to the rank of lieutenant in 1977 was closely followed by his promotion to captain in 1980, where he was given the responsibility of commanding the Sheriff's Specialized Detective Division. Three years later, he was promoted by Sheriff Floyd Tidwell to deputy chief which gave him responsibility over the next 4 years for the Valley-Mountain and Specialized Investigations Bureaus. In 1987, Ray was promoted to assistant sheriff which gave him oversight of the departmental support operations including corrections, training, records, crime laboratory, and identification. In 1991, Ray was appointed undersheriff and given wide responsibility for the overall operations of the department. He has served in this position under the leadership of both Sheriff Dick Williams and Sheriff Gary Penrod.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that you join me, our colleagues, as well as Ray Dorsey's family and many friends, in recognizing the selfless achievements of this remarkable man. Ray has given his professional life to the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department and has served the citizens of San Bernardino County well for almost 30 years. It is only appropriate that the House recognize Undersheriff Dorsey today as he begins his well deserved retirement.

TURKEY PROPOSES COMPREHENSIVE PEACE IN THE AEGEAN

HON. LEE H. HAMILTON

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 27, 1996

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, on March 24, 1996 new Turkish Prime Minister Mesut Yilmaz issued a statement calling for a process of comprehensive negotiations to resolve all bilateral Greek-Turkish problems in the Aegean as a whole.

Mr. Speaker, it is in the national interest of the United States and in the interest of lasting peace and stability in the eastern Mediterranean region that the differences between Greece and Turkey be resolved. We should use bilateral and multilateral means, as well as third-party mediation as necessary. All available opportunities for moving negotiations forward should be explored.

The key here is action, not just rhetoric or good intentions. We will have to see whether Turkey and Greece are willing to take concrete steps to resolve their longstanding differences in the Aegean.

These two NATO allies need to work with each other, with other NATO allies and if necessary with other international institutions to resolve their mutual problems. The proposals of Prime Minister Yilmaz hopefully will provide a timely opportunity to help break the current impasse in Greek-Turkish relations.

In order to inform other Members on the substance of Prime Minister Yilmaz' proposals, I am including the text of his statement in the RECORD. The text follows:

TURKEY PROPOSES COMPREHENSIVE PEACE IN THE AEGEAN

In a statement issued in Ankara today, Prime Minister Mesut Yilmaz called on Greece to enter into negotiations without preconditions with a view to settling all the Aegean questions as a whole, on the basis of respect for international law and agreements establishing the status quo in the Aegean.

The Turkish proposal included talks on the conclusion of a political framework agreement, a swift agreement on a comprehensive set of confidence building measures related to military activities, avoiding unilateral steps and actions that could increase tension and a comprehensive process of peaceful settlement, including third party arbitration.

The statement is as follows:

"During the recent years, there have been important changes in the world political scene, with old enemies increasingly seeking peace with each other. As a matter of fact, many years ago Ataturk and Venizelos were able to settle the Turkish-Greek differences through an epoch-making historical compromise and to usher in an era of long-term friendship and cooperation between the two countries.

"Today, we are going through a tense period in our relations with Greece. The latest crisis has demonstrated once again that the present state of Turkish-Greek relations is fraught with dangers. The fundamental interests of both countries lie in peace and cooperation, not confrontation. We both stand
